Heyyy...

I am Nelke Mast (she/her), alias NELLY DANSEN, a self-proclaimed Media Infiltrating Bimbo™, born somewhere in a Frisian Forest and raised in a House of Punks.

My practice explores researching erotic capital, self-conceptualisation and the deconstruction of contemporary & artistic identity. Through the embodiment of NELLY DANSEN, I explore the boundaries of reality and fiction to captivate and critique our zeitgeist, using my alter ego as the primary tool for queer-feminist expression.

Alongside the question "NELLY DANSEN: a Girl™ or a Concept?", the Freudian Madonna vs. The Whore complex continues to be the red thread in my artistic practice.

My practice is reactive by nature, always intertextual and infused with critical humor. Starring on the cover of Playboy, documenting my interrogation at the U.S. border, or live-streaming from the red-light district, my work thrives on real-world collisions: moments where performance and reality collapse into one another allowing my work to stay ALIVE, open and responsive.

XOXO,

NELLY DANSEN
